Preface.

THE First Edition having been received with such unqualified approval, both by the press and by the public, encouraged the Author to prepare this Second Edition, with considerable additions. Several important alterations in the form of the work have been made, which it is hoped will be found an improvement as well as an advantage. The Towns and Villages appear in alphabetical order, and also under their respective counties, affording greater facilities for the finding of particular places.

For much valuable help, generously given, the Author tenders his most grateful thanks to, amongst others, the following Ladies and Gentlemen, whose contributions have assisted materially in the production of the present volume :—Rev. Professor Skeat, M.A. ; Rev. Chancellor Parish, M.A. ; Rev. J. T. Fowler, M.A., F.S.A., M.R.C.S. ; Rev. J. Charles Cox ; Rev. W. H. Sewell, M.A. ; Rev. Cyne Randolph, M.A. ; Rev. J. Hamblin Smith, B.A. ; Rev. Thomas Lees, M.A. ; Rev. J. Langhorne, M.A. ; Rev. Elias Owen, M.A. ; Rev. J. Bowstead Wilson, M.A. ; Rev. W. F. Rose, M.A. ; Rev. R. E. Cole, M.A. ; A. J. Ellis, Esq., F.R.S. ; A. Wallis, Esq. ; T. Holderness, Esq. ; C. H. Poole, Esq. ; C. Roach Smith, Esq., F.S.A. ; W. Robinson, Esq. ; W. H. $. John Hope, Esq., B.A., F.S.A. ; R. Holland, Esq. ; A. H. Brown, Esq. ; W. Spurrell, Esq. ; $. Swithin ; Miss Courteney.

Any additional Names of Places, or of Families, however few, will be thankfully received by the Author, Albion Crescent, Scarborough.

Introduction.

OF all the subjects taken up by the English Dialect Society, to whose indefatigable labours we owe so much, it seems strange that the subject of Dialectal Place-Nomenclature should have been almost entirely overlooked. From the great and increasing interest taken in the study of Place-Names it is the more unaccountable. To supply this oversight is the primary object of the present work. Professor Skeat, writing to Notes and Queries, 6th S., ii., 50, truly remarks—"In attempting a collection of Place-Names I hope it will be born in mind that what we want is the list of them, with the earliest spelling where they can be ascertained, (to which may be added the local pronunciation when differing from that suggested by the ordinary mode of spelling, which often proves the correct one of the original name). The Etymology of Place-Names is extremely difficult, and on that account is absolutely revelled in by the guess-makers, because they know how hard it is to confute them. . . . The Place-Names of England are of great interest and value; let us not discredit their value by unworthy associations with modern guess-work."

The local cognomens, like the daily language still sometimes spoken in our various Counties, are fast disappearing, and if those remaining are not soon collected, they will be irretrievably lost. Every name given is either well known to the Author, or has been vouched for by persons residing in the districts, of whose reliability there can be no possible question. In consequence of the great size of the County of York, it has been deemed advisable to denote the Ridings in which the "Places" are situated; thus the East, North, and West Ridings are represented individually by the initial letters E., N., or W.

The addition to the volume of the list of Family Surnames, pronounced differently from what the spelling suggests, will not be found altogether useless or devoid of interest. A difficulty has been met with, from the fact that there are instances of families of the same name, adopting different modes of pronunciation to each another; the one given, is the best known to the Author, or has been supplied to him from undoubted sources. With reference to the pronunciation of the name Coke, the following anecdote may not be out of place:—"When Sir Edward Coke was sent to the Tower, they punned against him in English. An unpublished letter of the day has this curious anecdote—The room in which he lodged in the Tower had formerly been a kitchen, and on his entrance, the L. C. J. read on the door the Legend, 'This Kitchen only wants a Cook.'"

The list of Names of Rivers appended is very short ; no doubt a very much larger one might be made.

Professor Skeat, writing to the Author, says :—
“The chief thing that strikes me, is that it would be convenient to have some exact mode of representing pronunciations—such as ‘Glossic,’ vide Mr. Ellis’s tract on it. Pronunciations given in approximate spellings cannot always be understood.” While thanking the learned Professor for his kind suggestion, it has been thought, that as the majority of persons do not understand “Glossic,” to have published it in such a form, would have rendered it, to many, a sealed book ; should, however, a third edition ever be called for, a fourth column of “Glossic” may be added ; other reasons than the one alleged, prevented the addition of such a column in the present edition.

The kind indulgence of the press and of the public, for all the shortcomings in this volume ; a consideration of the many and great obstacles to be met with in its compilation, and an honest desire to make the work as complete and accurate as possible, is the sincere desire of the Author.

Velocipede riders, and tourists generally, will find this little work of great utility when travelling about the country. The rustic has often a very different pronunciation for his own, and surrounding villages, to what, from the usual mode of spelling, might be expected, and completely fails to comprehend when he hears them pronounced in any other way than his own.

FAULTS ESCAPED THE PRINTER'S VIGILANCE.

A REPRINT OF

THE POPISH KINGDOME ; or, Reigne of Antichrist.

Written in Latin Verse ; by THOMAS NAOGEORGUS, and Englyshed by BARNABE GOOGE, 1570, with a brief Memoir of his Life, by ROBERT CHARLES HOPE, Peterhouse, Cambridge.

Of this rare and curious work only one perfect copy is known to exist, viz., that in the Cambridge University Library, from which this reprint is taken.

To the Antiquary, the Student of Philology, and of Folk-Lore this work is invaluable ; both Brand and Hone quote largely from it, and the account which it contains of popular and other superstitions is unusually interesting. It forms a most curious Calendar of Seasons and Saints' Days, with their ancient customs, observances, ceremonies, and sports, mingled with the doings of mummers, minstrels, jesters, beggars, and pedlars.

It is printed like the original, in Black Letter, at the Chiswick Press, on Van Gelder's Dutch hand-made paper, uncut edges, in boards.

Twenty-five large paper and 250 small paper copies only have been printed. All the large, and a great proportion of the small paper copies, have already been taken up. As only a limited number remain on sale, intending purchasers should send in their orders immediately.

"When we bear in mind what a vast amount of illustration of old English customs and superstitions Sir Henry Ellis has transferred to his admirable edition of 'Brand's Popular Antiquities' from Barnabe Googe's translation of the 'Regnum Papisticum' of Naoegeorgus, it is certainly extraordinary, in this age, when reprints of so many early and scarce books of far inferior interest to the 'Popish Kingdome' have been given to the press, that the unique copy of that highly curious volume in the University Library, Cambridge, has not been produced long before this.—When we add that it has been produced at the 'Chiswick Press,' in black letter, we need say little more."—St. James's Gazette.

"The book is beautiful exceedingly, and the Editor may with good reason congratulate himself on the success of his efforts.—From the available scanty materials, Mr. Hope has drawn up an interesting little biography of the poet.—The present is the author's most elaborate and, in some respects, his most characteristic work.—As there is only one perfect copy of the original in existence, and as the work is not merely of antiquarian, but also of rare poetical interest, readers will easily infer for themselves how valuable is the editorial service rendered by Mr. R. C. Hope"—Fifeshire Journal.

"The reprint, in the exact form and character of the Black Letter belonging to the period, has been most carefully and accurately produced by Chas. Whittingham and Co., the proprietors of the Chiswick Press, and it reflects the very highest credit on those artistic printers, who, of course possess a world-wide fame.—The book of Barnabe Googe, of which we have now an exact reprint, is singularly rare. Three copies only are known, and of these, two are deficient in many respects. The sole perfect copy is that which the reader will have placed before him in the careful and very valuable reprint which Mr. Hope has, with so much assiduity, ability, and expense, accomplished."—Scarborough Gazette.

"Its unicity is by no means its only or its chief charm. The volume has outward grace quite sufficient to make it a desirable possession. It is interesting in itself, and a credit to English book-workmanship in its get-up."—Saturday Review.

"When once allowance has been made for the intolerant fanaticism of both author and translator, it must be admitted that there is no little raciness and vigour, and even in some places poetical merit of a sort, to be found in the verses; so that on literary as well as on antiquarian grounds, Mr. Hope has done a public benefit in reprinting this very curious volume, and doing it to in so beautiful a fashion."—Church Times.

"This poem forms a very curious and important link in the development of English verse literature."—Academy.

"It is just the kind of book that deserves to be reprinted, and Mr. Hope has reproduced it in a very elegant form. The modern reader will be grateful for his useful side notes, which make the book clearer and more useful. Useful little facts will be found throughout, but the fourth book is the most generally interesting."—Bibliographer.

"A capital reprint of a work not only curious and interesting in itself as one of the rarest of books, but also valuable for the quaint descriptions of the customs and superstitions of the sixteenth century, which cannot fail to be valuable and welcome to the folk-lorist and student of social life. We heartily congratulate Mr. Hope on the manner in which he has fulfilled his task, which reflects credit on all concerned."—Notes and Queries.

"As a specimen of printing it is faultless. Messrs. Whittingham have done all that could be done to make the book attractive."—Athenæum.

"Mr. Hope's prefatory memoir of Barnabe Googe is exhaustive; for he seems to have consulted all the known authorities upon the subject and to have made good use of the materials at his command. The editorial work appears to be both thorough and judicious."—Derby Mercury.

"We have before us an important work which Mr. Robert Charles Hope has just reprinted so carefully and with such excellent taste."—Antiquary.

"The reprint seems admirably executed. The Editor has performed his duty most carefully."—Sacristy.

"Its value is very great, not only to the theologian, but also to the antiquary, philologist, and lover of folk-lore. It is strange that for so long it has not been reprinted. Mr. R. C. Hope has just edited it with a valuable and interesting memoir of Googe. It is improved by the addition of side notes, by the help of which one can at a glance discover the subject contained in the text. Even a few minutes spent over this will show what a rich mine of antiquarian and folk-lore research is contained in this quaint volume. It is also of interest as a feat of printing, for it is reproduced in the exact form of the black-letter characters of the time when it first appeared."—Leeds Mercury.

Part I. Ready.

A HISTORY OF THE SEALS AND ARMORIAL INSIGNIA OF THE UNIVERSITY AND COLLEGES OF CAMBRIDGE. To be Illustrated by 26 Coloured Plates and 60 Engravings of Seals. Produced in the highest style of art. By W. H. $. JOHN HOPE, B.A., F.S.A., $. Peter's College, Cambridge, Co-Author of "The Chronicles of the Collegiate Church of All Saints, Derby." Price to Subscribers 2s., price to Non-Subscribers 3s. per part.

"We heartily welcome the first part of what promises to be a most handsome and valuable work. All the Seals are carefully reproduced in dallastype, and in addition there is a beautiful chromo-lithograph of a disused Shield of Arms of the University, not recorded at the College of Arms. If the remaining twenty-four parts are equally well executed with the one before us, we shall possess a work of first-rate importance, and a real addition to Sigillarian literature."—Antiquary.

THE CHURCH BELLS OF YORKSHIRE (North and West Ridings), by ROBERT CHARLES HOPE.

LEGENDS OF LAKELAND.

BY ADRA,

(Author of "Saxon Remains Found in Bedfordshire"; "The Luck of Edenhall.")

BLENCATHRA; a Legend of Early Britain. Druidic.

S. BEGA; a Legend of S. Bee's Head. Saxon.

WOTOBANK; a Legend of Beckermot. Saxon.

CALDER ABBEY; a Legend of The Brothers There. Norman.

THE SLEEPWALKER; a Legend of Ara Force, Ulleswater. Norman.

THE TWO BROTHERS; a Legend of Egremont Castle. Norman.

THE FLIGHT OF MARY, QUEEN OF SCOTS; a Legend of Solway Frith. Tudor.

In the Introductory Notice the Author says—"These unpretending Ballad-lyrics were composed with the single aim of exciting at least some interest in the incidents referred to; of imparting a certain amount of pleasure; and, perhaps, of conveying, in a somewhat attractive form, a modicum of instruction to certain gentle ones very dear to the heart of the humble writer. They were conceived and thought out in the very midst of the scenic beauties of that favoured country to which they refer, and which, however imperfect may be the present attempt to describe them, were familiar for many years to the Author as a sketcher, and to his mind and imagination as a dreamer of dreams.

"Believing that they may awaken the attention of others of a like tender age to that of his young friends, they are now committed to a wider arena than was originally intended. The one which refers to an important episode in the eventful life of the lovely, but unhappy, Mary, Queen of Scots, was jotted down in somewhat ruder verse, one glorious evening in May, so rich in flowers, in sight of the blue water (hemmed in by the hazy curtain of the distant hills of the country she was compelled to abandon), of the Firth of Solway, which she crossed at the very hour, on the same day of the week and month, exactly three hundred years before."

"The scenes of these charming lyrics, (for such they really are, in our estimation,) are chiefly laid in the romantic regions of rock and fell that are to be found in Cumberland and in the north-west part of Yorkshire; and the legendary lore of the districts referred to.

The author's style is always smooth and flowing, and his verse is free from those objectionable liberties which too many writers take, under the apology of 'license,' with metre, accent, rhyme, and even grammar. His descriptions of some of the scenes are often exceedingly graphic; and many of the portraits he draws are poetically beautiful and charming.—Scarborough Gazette, Sept. 8th, 1881.
